Invitation

Our seminar on August 31st 2023 explores the dynamic relationship between the pharmaceutical industry and academic institutions when it comes to making ground-breaking advancements in the field of drug discovery and development.

Speakers will consist of experts from venture building, industry-academia collaboration, business development and licensing, and IP rights. Experiences will be shared and we will shed light on the evolving landscape of drug discovery. The speakers will address topics such as models of collaboration, the role of innovation, and the resulting impact on patient care.

By attending this seminar on August 31st in the Biozentrum in Basel, you can look forward to insightful presentations, thought-provoking discussions and networking opportunities with professionals from various sectors. Additionally, you will gain access to the latest case studies, providing valuable knowledge and insights. This seminar is designed for professionals, researchers and academics with a keen interest in the convergence of industry and academia.

Join us on August 31st 2023 to learn from and discuss with the experts!

About Frontiers in Drug Development Seminars

ECPM offers one day seminars on new trends and developments in drug development science. These seminars provide the opportunity to integrate work and further education, to discuss with experts face-to-face and to build an international network. They take place on the fourth day of each of the six modules of the ECPM Diploma Course and are mandatory for students taking the Diploma Course. Additionally they are open to our alumni and other interested scientists and can be booked separately.

Learning Outcomes

- Participants will learn about the latest breakthroughs, technologies and future trends in pharmaceutical medicine and drug development, enabling them to stay updated with forefront of research and innovation.
- Stay informed about advancements in established concepts. By staying up-to-date with advancements, they will enhance their knowledge and understanding of proven approaches in drug development.
- They will enhance critical thinking skills for innovative drug development through lectures and interactive discussions. They will be encouraged to think outside the box and examine innovative strategies.
